Application deadline: February 28, 2022

The MSU Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (CLACS) announces a competition for Fellowships in support of graduate student predissertation research.

CLACS has a modest endowment to support graduate student predissertation research in Latin American/Caribbean countries.

Eligibility & Requirements

- Doctoral or master's students in good standing. Preference is given to doctoral students in the early stages of their studies.
- You must travel abroad for at least two weeks, though longer periods are preferred. Travel could be completed before December 31, 2022; however, extensions will be considered due to COVID-19 challenges.
- Fellows must submit a final report and present at the CLACS Graduate Student Conference.
- To explore award options and funding requirements, contact Emily Holley at holleyem@msu.edu to schedule a Zoom meeting.

More information & application:
https://clacs.isp.msu.edu/funding/student-funding/clacs-graduate-student-research-fellowships/